Stone Glue pvc Glue

By choosing wepersia trade , as your supplier you will receive products that are made to a high standard one of our most important goals is customer satisfaction .

Marbel

Marbel is one of the most used building stones in the world.

the main component of this stone is different minerals,

including crystallized carbonate.

among the important features of these stones can be mentioned low moisture absorption, high strength , stunning beauty and high smoothness.

Onyx

Onyx is a variety of stone that comes from chalcedony . chalcedony is a silicate mineral, mostly made of calcite(similar to marble and granite) and it usually features contrasting layers of colour.

This group of stones, with their wide color spectrum, give abundant and unique beauty to building spaces.

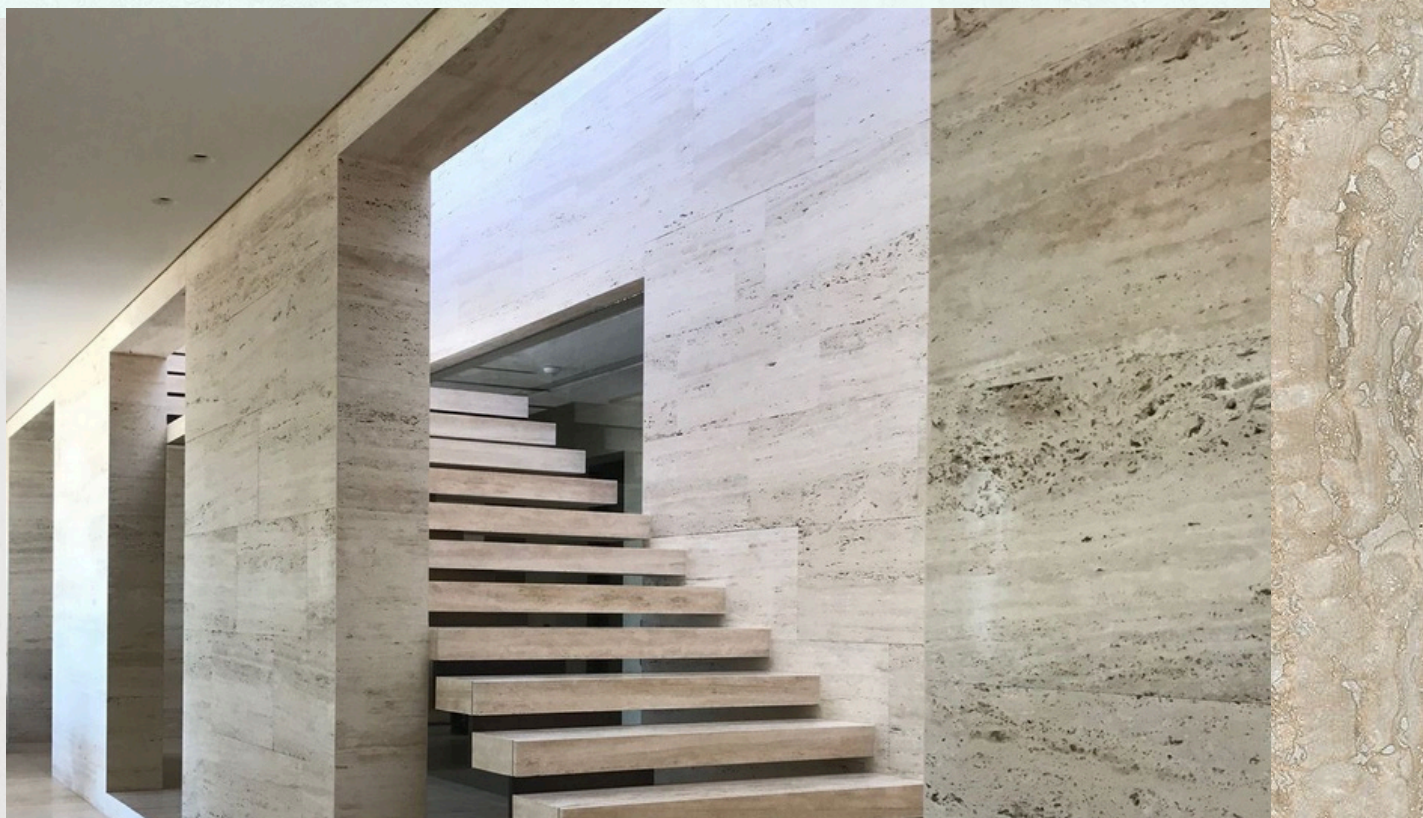

Travertine

Travertine is a kind of stone that has different characteristics and uses due to its formation.

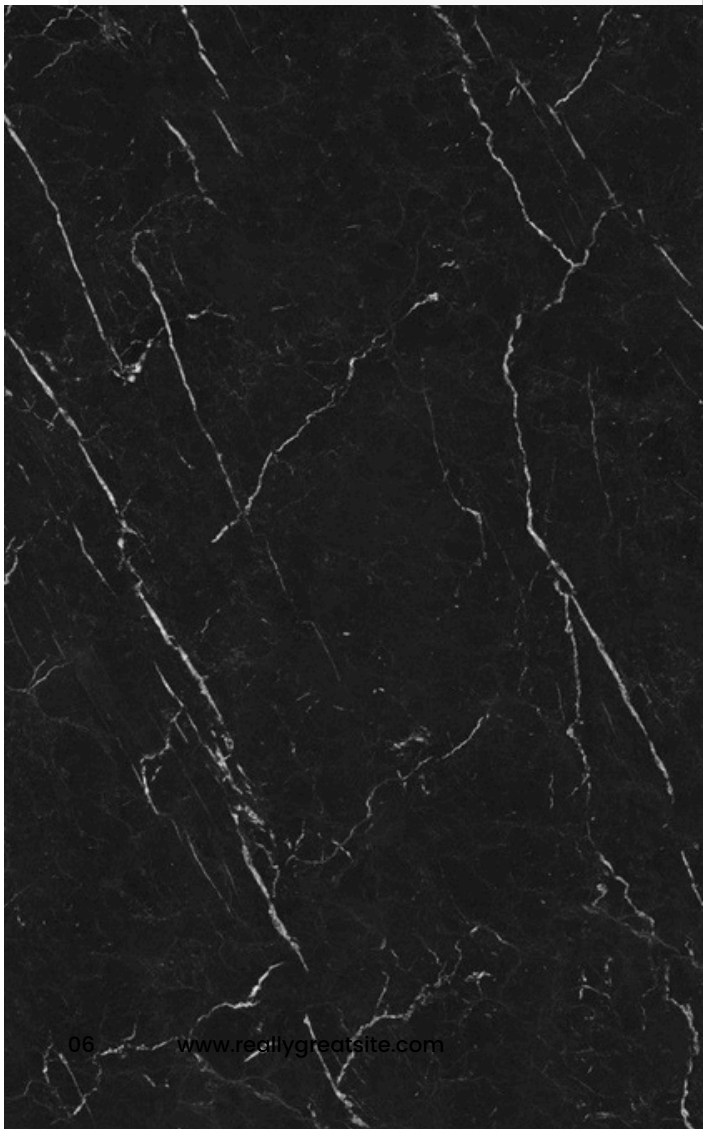

This stone has a significant contribution in the science of color design and interior and exterior design of buildings.

we provide this stone in different sizes according to customer's requests.

Granite

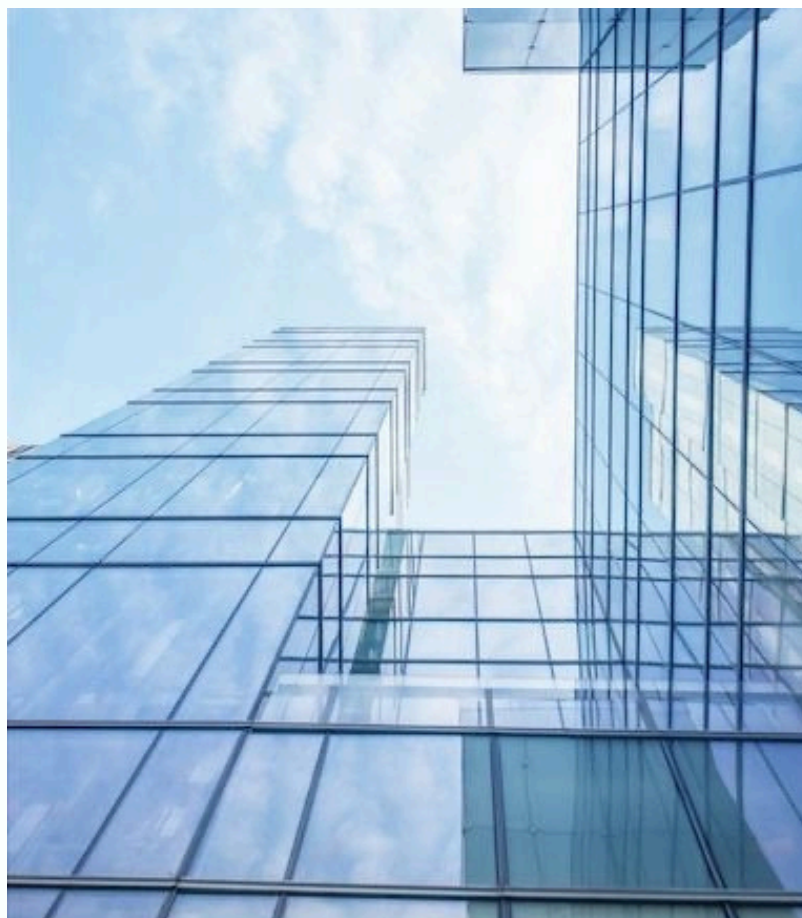

This extremely hard and durable stone is highly popular in construction. It consists of multiple chemical compounds including aluminum metals, silica, potassium, iron metals and other materials, which makes it strong and hard.
